Therabreath PerioTherapy Review: How To Stop Bad Breath And Gum Problems With One Solution

Bad breath can have many numerous causes, but unfortunately, there are not nearly as many reliable treatments to stop bad breath as there are reasons for developing the annoying problem.

Instead, people who suffer from bad breath and the many issues that accompany it (lack of self confidence, avoiding social situations, not to mention gum disease) are left to experiment with different products that may not even work at all!

Even over-the-counter mouthwashes may not be nearly as helpful for eradicating bad breath as they claim to be, so what is left to try? For many skeptics, Therabreath's top of the line products such as PerioTherapy have been the answer.

Overview of PerioTherapy

Let's discuss the PerioTherapy product line from Therabreath. The PerioTherapy oral rinse contains such ingredients as concentrated OXYD-8 and zinc gluconate, along with organic ingredients such as tea tree oil and essential oil of spearmint. This combination helps to combat periodontal disease at its onset, along with the bad breath that comes with it.

Meanwhile, the PerioTherapy treatment gel/paste contains ingredients such as sorbitol, PeriO2, and Aloe Barbadosis Gel, and both products avoid the use of alcohol, saccharin and the allergen benzalkonium chloride.

Advantages

There are a lot of advantages to using Therabreath's PerioTherapy oral rinse and treatment gel. For instance, you will see steady results that will help to vanquish your issues of bad breath (along with the progression of many gum diseases and infections) through the use of the two products. Using them together only helps, as each complements the other.

Other options, such as the PerioTherapy syringe, allow you to apply the treatment gel manually to troublesome areas to ensure maximum improvements from its usage, which is a nice option for hard to reach places that require a little extra help outside of what you can get from brushing alone.

Disadvantages

There are not many disadvantages to using these products. The PerioTherapy oral rinse does require you to use it a few times per day for maximum results, which may be difficult for you, depending on your schedule. Of course, there are travel versions available for those that are often on the go, and many other users have reported that they simply keep an extra bottle at their office to help them keep up on their routine.

There is also the issue of the cost of the products. While they are not as expensive as many comparable products on the market, you also have to consider that they work much better than less expensive, over the counter products that are often found in stores. If you are going to spend your money, you may as well do so on a product that works.

Who can benefit

Really, anyone who suffers from bad breath that does not respond well to a normal dental hygiene program should definitely consider the usage of these products. Therabreath has long been one of the more reliable companies for dental hygiene, particularly in the area of maintaining healthy gums, and that is why these products are as effective as they are.
